

Then, it came time to move into the tunnel using methods both high tech and not so

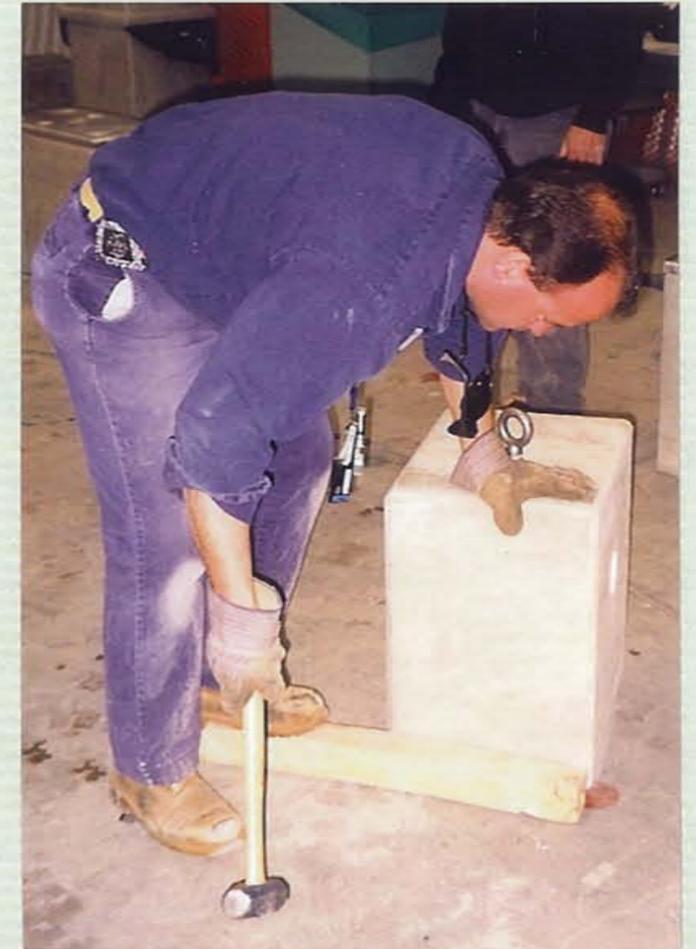

Some things just barely made it...

And don't forget the final precision alignment step!

While others required special handling...

The detector moves to the tunnel!

